The Cleveland Foundation, established twenty-five years ago, outlines in this anniversary booklet some of the achievements which were made possible by the generous gifts of the many donors whose bequests are listed.

To us it seems that the facts about the growth of the Foundation are eloquent; hence this booklet is mainly a record of facts.

We believe that the plan of the Foundation offers the best method yet devised to meet the needs of a changing world.

We hope this brief review will be of interest to all who read it.

TIME will be required to determine the value and usefulness of community trusts. I am hopeful they will be found helpful in avoiding the evil effects of the "Dead Hand" and in stimulating and safeguarding gifts to charity.

From address of the late F. H. Goff, founder of The Cleveland Foundation, delivered September 30, 1919.

There is now available the record of 25 years with which to judge the "value and usefulness of community trusts."
On January 2, 1914, The Cleveland Foundation was established by action of the Board of Directors of The Cleveland Trust Company. It was a pioneer undertaking conceived by the late Frederick Harris Goff, a great citizen of Cleveland.

It is a community foundation, or community trust, set up for the continuing benefit of this city and its people. Its purposes are charitable and educational in the broadest sense.

It is organized to function upon a permanent basis because charitable trusts are deemed to be established in perpetuity.
SOME BASIC QUESTIONS

How assure that gifts made upon a permanent basis for specific philanthropic purposes will not outlive their usefulness?

How assure that funds will be so administered as to respond intelligently and reasonably to changing conditions of community need?

These are basic questions which prospective donors should consider. The Cleveland Foundation offers an answer to these questions.
THE FOUNDATION'S FUNDS

The Foundation's funds are not the gifts of a single individual or family as is the case with certain foundations. Instead, The Cleveland Foundation provides for the union of gifts from any number of donors through which its broad and beneficial purposes may be carried out.

The present endowment totaling over $6,000,000, represents large, small, and medium-sized gifts* left at different times by various donors, generous-minded citizens who have recognized the merits of the community foundation plan.

*At present certain trusts are subject to life uses so that the entire income from such trusts is not available for the benefit of the Foundation.
SAFEGUARDING AND INVESTING OF FUNDS

The Foundation's funds are placed in the custody of Cleveland financial institutions which are trustees of the Foundation. They are charged with the duty of safeguarding and investing the funds entrusted to them, making available the income and, under certain conditions the principal, for the purposes of the Foundation.

The trustees for the Foundation are now the Central National Bank

The Cleveland Trust Company
The National City Bank

Each of these institutions is administering funds for The Cleveland Foundation.
USE OF INCOME

The income from the Foundation's funds is disbursed for charitable and educational purposes by a Distribution Committee of five citizens. The term of office is five years, one term expiring each year. Members may be reappointed.

Two members are appointed by the trustee institutions and three by public officials; one each by the presiding judge of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Ohio, Eastern Division; the Judge of the Probate Court of Cuyahoga County; the Chief Executive of the City of Cleveland.

Members of the Committee are "selected for their knowledge of the educational or charitable needs of the community." They serve without compensation.
DONORS MAY DESIGNATE

Any donor to the Foundation may designate his preferred charity and his wishes will be observed by the Distribution Committee until changing conditions make such purpose unnecessary, undesirable, impractical, or impossible. In such case, by proper action of the Foundation, the funds can thereafter be used for such other charitable purposes as will, presumably, more effectually promote the public welfare.

Various donors to the Foundation have exercised this right of designation. But recognizing that change is inevitable they did not wish their gifts tied irrevocably to a particular institution or particular purpose.

Who can know accurately what the future needs of the community will be? The question answers itself.
UPON WHOM SHALL WE DEPEND?

In a legal sense The Cleveland Foundation is established in perpetuity.

But during that long tenure, the Foundation’s benefactions will be administered by living people—citizens of this community. By the nature of the plan they cannot serve their own interest, since no material benefits can accrue to them from this service. They can only serve, as best they can, the charitable and educational needs which they see and understand.

Who can do more?
EARLY YEARS

During its earliest years the Foundation did not have income-producing endowments. Accumulation of endowment takes time.

Nevertheless the Foundation was active from the very beginning. A series of important and useful community surveys were undertaken. These were initiated by a group known as the Survey Committee of The Cleveland Foundation which planned and conducted certain surveys and secured the necessary contributions of money to meet the costs involved.

This Committee, appointed in February, 1914, was composed of Charles E. Adams, chairman; Thomas G. Fitzsimons, Myrta Jones Cannon, Bascom Little, Victor W. Sincere; A. D. Baldwin, secretary. It served until 1917. Under its supervision the comprehensive Cleveland School Survey (The Education Survey) and the Survey of Cleveland's Relief Agencies were completed. The school survey has had a notable influence upon public school education.
The first Foundation Committee known as such was appointed in the spring of 1917 and was made up of Dr. J. D. Williamson, chairman; Thomas G. Fitzsimons, Malcolm L. McBride, Belle Sherwin and Ambrose Swasey.

The Committee continued for some time the policy of conducting important and needful community surveys. Notable were the Cleveland Recreation Survey and the Survey of Criminal Justice. This latter survey, particularly, received international notice and prompted, among other things, the execution of similar monumental studies in other cities and states. From 1914 to 1919 Allen T. Burns served as director of survey activities.

By 1919 income from endowment funds was available to the Foundation and it began its permanent and major task, the administration of income for charitable and educational purposes for the benefit of this community.
THE MULTIPLE TRUSTEESHIP

An Important Development

Since 1930 additional local trust companies, acting individually, have become, with The Cleveland Trust Company, trustees for the Foundation.

This has been accomplished by the adoption, on the part of each participating institution, of a Resolution and Declaration of Trust creating the Cleveland Foundation.

The resolution of the Board of Directors of The Cleveland Trust Company of January 2, 1914, originally establishing the Foundation necessarily remains in full force and effect. All new trusts for the Foundation are, however, executed under the resolution of later date.
SPREAD OF THE COMMUNITY FOUNDATION PLAN

The Cleveland Foundation, pioneer community trust, has been widely copied. More than 75 community foundations have been established and modeled essentially upon the plan established here on January 2, 1914.

Examination of files of The Cleveland Foundation will reveal that scarcely a month passes during which inquiries are not received from communities in this and other countries about the operation of the Foundation and how a similar plan may be instituted.
THE TANGIBLE EVIDENCE OF SERVICE

The Cleveland Foundation has disbursed over $2,202,000 for charitable and educational purposes for the benefit of this community. These benefactions have been possible because of the gifts of donors who have endowed the Foundation as a permanent institution for the administration of gifts dedicated to the welfare of this city and its inhabitants.

There follows a condensed statement of disbursements classified by major purposes from the inception of the Foundation to January 1, 1939.

Suggested Forms for Gifts to
THE CLEVELAND FOUNDATION
By Will or Trust Agreement

The following suggestions are made to accomplish the incorporation of the Resolution, into the Will or Trust Agreement avoiding the necessity of copying the full text of the Resolution into the document. The attorney drafting the Will or Trust Instrument should use apt words to meet the conditions of each particular gift.

If the Will or Trust Agreement provides for an immediate bequest or gift to The Cleveland Foundation not dependent on any prior trusts, the insertion of the following will provide for such gift and incorporate the Foundation plan without the necessity of setting forth the resolution at length:

"I give and bequeath the sum of (Name of Bank or Trust Company) , to be managed, controlled, administered, and disbursed in all respects for the charitable uses and purposes set forth in a Resolution adopted by the Board of Directors of (Name of Bank or Trust Company) on the day of , providing for a community charitable trust, designated in said Resolution as The Cleveland Foundation, said Resolution being set forth at length in the minutes of the meeting of the said Board of Directors on the date aforesaid as written in the corporate records on page , volume of said records, which resolution and records are actually in existence at the time this will is executed, and are incorporated herein as fully and with like effect as if herein written at length."

A like provision may be used in a living trust agreement with appropriate language for the present gift of money or property in lieu of the words "I give and bequeath" in the above legacy form.

If the Will or Trust Agreement provides for payment of income to family and relatives during life, or other precedent trusts, the following form is suggested:

"Upon the termination of the trusts hereinbefore expressed I direct that the entire net income derived from the trust estate, with its accumulations as aforesaid, shall be expended or appropriated each year, perpetually, until the principal may have been disbursed, for the charitable uses and purposes set forth in a Resolution adopted by the Board of Directors of (Name of Bank or Trust Company) on the day of , providing for a community charitable trust, designated in said Resolution as The Cleveland Foundation, and to that end I direct that the trust estate, both principal and income shall, at the termination of the aforesaid trusts, vest in (Name of Bank or Trust Company) and be managed, controlled, administered and disbursed in all respects as provided in said Resolution, which is set forth at length in the minutes of the meeting of said Board of Directors on the date aforesaid as written in the corporate records on page , volume of said records, which resolution and records are actually in existence at the time this will or trust agreement is executed, and are incorporated herein as fully and with like effect as if herein written at length."

If in the Will or Trust Agreement it is desired to express a preference as to a particular charitable institution or institutions, or as to the kind of charitable endeavor to be favored, language to the following effect may be added:

"Pursuant to the right reserved to the contributors to said Foundation, I hereby express my desire that the income and/or principal herein bequeathed (or given) for the charitable purposes of said Cleveland Foundation, be distributed, subject to the terms and provisions of said Resolution, to the following charitable institutions: (or for the following charitable purposes:)

If it is desired that the gift to The Cleveland Foundation, bear a name as a memorial, the following language may be used:

"It is my desire that the foregoing gift be known as the . . . . . . . . MEMORIAL FUND."

The Resolution creating The Cleveland Foundation under the Multiple Trusteeship Plan was adopted by the several trustee institutions cooperating in said plan on the following dates:

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF FUNDS

The present funds of the Foundation are made up of gifts of generous donors who, in most instances, were residents of Cleveland or vicinity.
